We expect the market to trade mix in the coming week. However, the positive earnings releases may encourage investors to pick fundamentally sound stocks in the coming week. We will continue to advise investors to trade only on fundamentally justified stocks as the weak macro economic environment remains a significant challenge for listed companies. In the light of the above we recommend the underlisted stocks for purchase during the week.

TRANSCORP, UBA, MTNN, WAPCO PLC, ACCESS PLC, DANGOTE SUGAR, and NASCON Multiverse, RT BRISCOE, OMATEK, CHAMS, LASACO and OANDO were recommended as speculative STOCKS.

STOCK MARKET REPORT

MARKET DEVELOPMENTS (LAST WEEK)

Nigerian Breweries Plc's workforce has been reduced by 380 workers as the brewer struggled with the loss induced by surging cost and the naira floating policy of the Central Bank of Nigeria last year. NB joined brewery firms like International Breweries Plc which declared N59.5bn net loss in 2023 and Champions Breweries which is also struggling. In 2023, breweries in Nigeria struggled with the high cost of operations and sourcing expensive foreign exchange to purchase raw materials for their beer and soft drink business. Nigerian Breweries audited financial statement results for 2023 analysed by THE WHISTLER show that their desired destination of sustained profitability is still a long way off. The brewery company which is the largest listed beer maker on the Nigerian Exchange Limited posted a revenue growth of 9 per cent from N550.5bn in 2022 to N599.5bn by the end of 2023. The company recorded an unimpressively yearly loss which is huge by the standards of a firm whose business model is based on spending heavily to keep rivals out of the picture.

INVESTMENT BASICS

INVESTMENT IN TREASURY BILLS

T-bills are the typical traditional investments, as opposed to stocks, which are more speculative in nature. Buying into T-Bills is a great way to save and grow your money steadily, especially during periods of high interest rate when you can get yields comparable to or exceeding that of stock returns. Here are the key steps to get you started in investing in T-bills.

Understand your financial needs.

While T-bills should be a part of almost anyone's portfolio, how much you should invest in T-bills will depend on your personal circumstances and objectives of saving/investing. But as a low-income earner, you can always start small.

Where to buy T-Bills.

T-bills are can only be bought or traded through registered dealers. Most banks are first point of contact as they are actively involved in buying and selling of T-bills. In addition, some big investment houses are actively involved as well. I will recommend the investment houses because of the retail model of their businesses.

The minimum transaction .

The lowest denomination is N1,000 but it is traded in chunks. Basically, banks won't accept any trade less than N100,000. But the investment houses accepts retail amount of N10,000 as minimum transaction, and you upgrade it later as your income grows.

Period of Transaction.

It is a bi-weekly business activity among the dealers unlike stocks that are traded every working day. The announcements are done by CBN on behalf of government; you may get to know through your respective dealers.

Understand How to Buy or trade.

To buy T-bills, you must process an account with a registered dealer or your bank. Then you give a trade mandate by filling an application form to indicate your volume of trade with right amount. Allow your dealer to advise you on rates and periods of maturity.

The interest.

The interest on T-Bills is paid upfront and credited to your bank account. e.g. if you apply for the purchase of N10,000 T-Bills at 10%, the CBN debits your account with N9,000 and N1,000 interest is paid instantly. While at maturity stage, you will be paid the face value of N10,000.

The yield.

Yield is the return on investment. The yield for the N10,000 is 10%. As a result of upfront payment of N1,000, the yield would now be calculated to be the N1,000 interest divided by the N9,000 initial payment for the T-Bills. i.e. $N1,000/N9,000$, which gives you 11.11% yield.

Possibility of Roller Over.

Through your dealer, you can roll-over the principal and interest on your T-Bills upon maturity. This will give you an opportunity to earn compound interest on your money. This is really advisable.

The Durations.

Durations are usually 91days, 182days and 364 days. It is so because T-Bills are typically short term money market instruments but you can sell before maturity. Very well, you can sell T-Bills before maturity, using the OTC market. But note that this is going to be determined by demand and supply. If T-bill you are holding is on demand i.e. trading at higher rate in the OTC market, you may want to take advantage of that. On a conclusive note, please remember that seeking a professional advice from a registered financial advisor cannot be over emphasised. Regardless of who you are seeking advice from, you should understand that your investment/saving objective is very key to your investment decisions. And it is compulsory for your financial advisor to respect and honour that in advising you accordingly. So stop thinking and start doing now!
